

Fr. Matt's Musings

June 9, 2017

This week, the title of this message should be Mike and Matt's musing. After last week's celebration of Pentecost, one of our parishioners, Mike Linegang, sent me the following reflection:

I wanted to share... I was out in the narthex chasing my toddler (as usual) for your homily at 9:30 mass. The sign in the driveway struck me. "No parking or standing. Fire lane!" That's how it is with the spirit... No rest, no parking, no standing... If you're in the "fire lane," you've gotta keep moving.

This weekend, we celebrate the Trinity. The movement of the Triune God is the movement of love: creative, saving and sustaining. St. Francis de Sales reminds us that in the spiritual life, there is no neutral. We are constantly moving, either forward or slipping backward. In imitation of our God of love, let's remember to put ourselves in the fire lane, dedicating ourselves to love, no parking or standing, just loving and being loved. Thank you, Mike, for sharing your reflection with us!

Live Jesus!
